NOVEMBER: XI Month.

Thus while in vain the wretched human Brood,
Purſue on Earth a falſe, imagin'd Good;
That Good, which Creatures never can beſtow,
With him ſtill only found from whom they flow;
While Gold or Luſt, with a deceitful Bribe,
Tempt to ſure Woes the eaſy liſt'ning Tribe;
While Faction leads th' unſteady Herd aſide,
And Vanity perverts the Sons of Pride;

keeps all the revolving Bodies of our Syſtem in their Orbits, though he does not pretend to account for its Cauſe, otherwiſe than by aſcribing it to the firſt Cauſe of all, viz. The ſupreme Being acting in and upon the Machine of the World, by the Means or Interpoſition, perhaps, of ſome immenſely ſubtile and elaſtic Element. As for the Force, which carries the Planets and Comets round their Centres, and which would carry them out into infinite Space, if the Attraction from the Centre did not prevent it, it is only to be accounted for in the ſame Manner, by aſcribing it to the divine Power. It is by the ballancing and proportioning of theſe two Forces, called the centripetal and centrifugal, that the whole Machine of the World performs its Motions. This may be made very plain by fixing to the Middle of a large Table the End of a ſmall Cord, to the other End of which is faſtened a Clew or Ball. Throw the Ball from you, toward the Centre, but not directly, and you will ſee it revolve round the central Pin or Nail, which faſtens the End of the Cord to the Table. Here the Cord (which keeps the Ball from flying off) repreſents the centripetal Force or Virtue; which keeps the Planets in their Orbits, and the Force you give the Ball, when you throw it from you, repreſents the centrifugal Force, or Impulſe given the Planet by the Almighty Hand (for the Earth or any other Planet is but a very diminutive Ball in the Hand of God) which carries it on in its Revolution
